

Dijsselbloem Moscovici participate in the "Economic Progressive" debate

It was held this week in the European Parliament, a debate on economic governance and the future of the eurozone, an initiative of "Economics Progressive", a project coordinated by the MEP, Maria João Rodrigues, as vice-president of the S & D Group, in order to generate informed public debate about economic and social policies at national, European and global level, thus actively promoting a progressive approach to academic and political thought.

The session, chaired by Maria João Rodrigues, had the intervention of the President of the Eurogroup, Joeren Dijsselbloem, Commissioner Pierre Moscovici, the Secretary of the Italian State for European Affairs, Sandro Gozi and a member of the board of the European Central Bank, Benoit Coeuré. This meeting served to some of the main actors of the European socialist family to exchange views on the latest developments surrounding the reform of economic and monetary union.
